The old Lepperton Church, which has been removed to private property near the intersection of the Waitara - New Plymouth Highway and Inglewood Road, will be 100 years old in 1978.

The Church is in the process of being totally restored and has already been painted to its original colour scheme and the entrance has been changed to the other end where it originally was.

PRINTERS ERROR

When our last set of covers were printed, our printer made an unfortunate error.

The error will be corrected with the next issue of Photo News.

FLYING - from the top of Paratutu

The first man to jump from Paratutu and live was how a recent hang glider flight from the summit of Paratutu was described. Quite a crowd gathered to watch the historic event and they were not disappointed. The flight was both graceful and exciting.

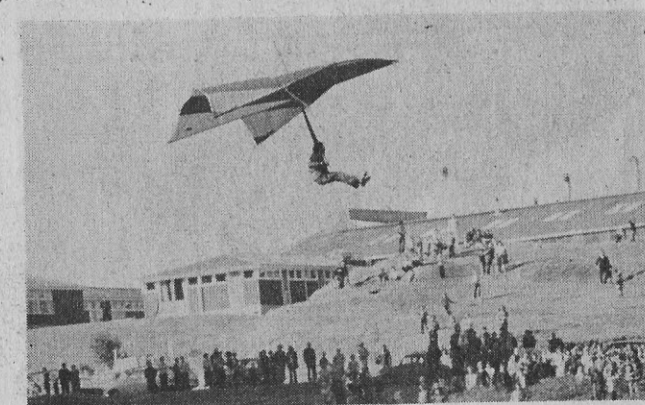

Standing at the summit of Paratutu, the hang glider is prepared for launching.

C. & W. CONCERT

The Country and Western Music Club staged an excellent two hour show recently at the Memorial Hall in Waitara. It was a very well produced show with non stop action and a wide variety and style of songs which belied the term country and western. We hope to see more shows staged by the club.

SOCCER

MOTUROA UNITED v UPPER HUTT

In an interesting game between Upper Hutt and Moturoa United a short time ago, the local side went down 4-2, after a half time score of 2 all. The first half saw excellent play by both sides but with two changes in the local side, the second half degenerated into a rather disjointed game.

• The Japanese side won the game against Taranaki and most people who witnessed the match agreed that the win was deserved. The Japanese players though small in build were incredibly fast and their brand of Rugby was very with those who watched the game.

TWITTY CHIEF

Conway Twitty has been appointed 'Honorary Chief' of Choctaw Indian Tribe in America.

The honour is a great one having only been bestowed on one other white man. In 1955 Roy Rogers, who has adopted two Choctaw Indian children was given an honorary chieftans title.

However Rogers did not receive the title 'Honorary Chief of the Choctaw Tribe' as has Twitty.

GUEST BUSY

Rob Guest, who recently sang at the Winter Show has a busy schedule ahead of him.

He is currently promoting his new single, which is called 'I Can't Make Your Love Me', and has been scheduled to make several TV appearances, including 'Pop Co' and a guest appearance on the NZBC religious song quest. He is also booked to make a tour of colleges.

HOT SELLER

Neil Diamonds double set 'Hot August Night' has racked up sales in Australia of over one million dollars. This figure is based on the wholesale price, excluding sales tax.

SHORT SNORTS

Osibisa a hit with all who saw them. Their new album is something of a return to their early style, back to that raw earthy sound yet with a more together and sophisticated musical backing ..... Australias Brian Cadd (The Coke TV advert man) was in New Zealand recently promoting a film he'd made. Guested on 'Pop Co' while he was here ..... George Baker has a slice of action touring New Zealand this month ..... Stuart McPherson handling the action in ten cities ..... Johnny Dankworth (Cleo Laines husband) received a C.B.E. from the Queen Mother .....

TRIPLE TRIUMPH

John Denver has achieved a triple triumph in America. His album 'John Denvers Greatest Hits' reached No 1 spot on all three of the major American charts. At the same time his single 'Sunshine On My Shoulder' took top honours in the charts for 'hot singles'. Already one of the hottest recording artists in America, Denvers' recent American TV Special scored heavily in the ratings and this boosted his record sales even further.

NEW ALBUMS

PAUL SIMON..... Paul Simon In Concert - Live Rhythmin....CBS... 474-176

Paul Simons' album releases keep on getting better with each release. This 'live' album is definitely his best since the duo of Simon and Garfunkel split. Guesting on the album are the Jessy Dixon Singers and a great South American group called Urubamba. Both parties add a lot to the album and help to give a new feel to material always associated with the Simon and Garfunkel duo, not with Simon as a solo artist. Material on the album includes such as Me and Julio, Homeward Bound, El Condor Pasa, Bridge Over Troubled Waters, Loves Me Like a Rock, Mother and Child Reunion and the Sound of Silence.

JIM CROCE..... I Got a Name....Philips....6360-720:

It is ironic that Croce should find world wide fame after he had died. However this is often the way with great artists and great, Croce surely is. His talent was in his voice and his pen, and thankfully it is something the world at large is still able to enjoy. From the title track of this album to his hit 'I'll Have to Say I Love You In a Song', evidence of the mans talent is here on this release. Of course there are other tracks that are worthy of attention but for the many who adore the work of Jim Croce, let me simply say that you will discover a great many things about the man simply by listening to the tracks on this album that he has written.

THE NEW SEEKERS..... Together....Polydor....2393-264

This will probably be the last release by the New Seekers as the group has disbanded since the making of this album. It is always rather sad when an act of this calibre quits (in this case it was caused by hassles between group and management over money) for the public is always the worse off by the acts passing. This last album by the New Seekers is an ideal way in which to remember the group. They touch on material of many types and artists. From their 'With a Little Help From My Friends', to 'Crying Time, Brother Loves' Travelling Show, their own 'You Won't Find Another Fool Like Me, Melting Pot, Fire and Rain, My Sweet Lord, Day by Day, to Dedicated to the One I Love. Perhaps this collection of songs, more than any they have previously released, best portrays the versatility and tremendous power that was the New Seekers.

An American travel editor, whose syndicated travel column reaches 14 million readers, considers that all the extravagant claims made for New Zealand's tourist attractions are true.

During his first trip to this country recently as a guest of the Tourist and Publicity Department, he found that NZ condenses 'a world of scenery'. He said it was easier to list what NZ didn't have than to continue describing its attractive features.

It didn't have deserts or wastelands, nor pollution and large crowds; and it should be considered a destination in its own right rather than just a stopover on the way to or from other places. On his return to the United States the writer said: 'If you think mine is just another voice adding to the praises of New Zealand, please withhold judgement until you can look into these extravagant claims yourself.

Gossip is letting the cat out of the bag a claw at a time.

Taranaki is exceptionally well patronised by visitors for much of the year, but especially so at major holiday periods. The region is recognised as a family vacation area but there is a continuing improvement in tourist figures with awareness of our many attractions.

As organisations such as the Taranaki Promotion Association gain even greater promotional impetus, so more visitors from within NZ and overseas will come here to savour and enjoy our wares. I know that we gained from the increase in off peak traffic from Australia (35.8 per cent) in the period April 1 to September 30, 1973.

Remember: Taranaki is renowned as a friendly area and that every visitor is a welcome guest.

How to convert rust into pure gold — sell your car.

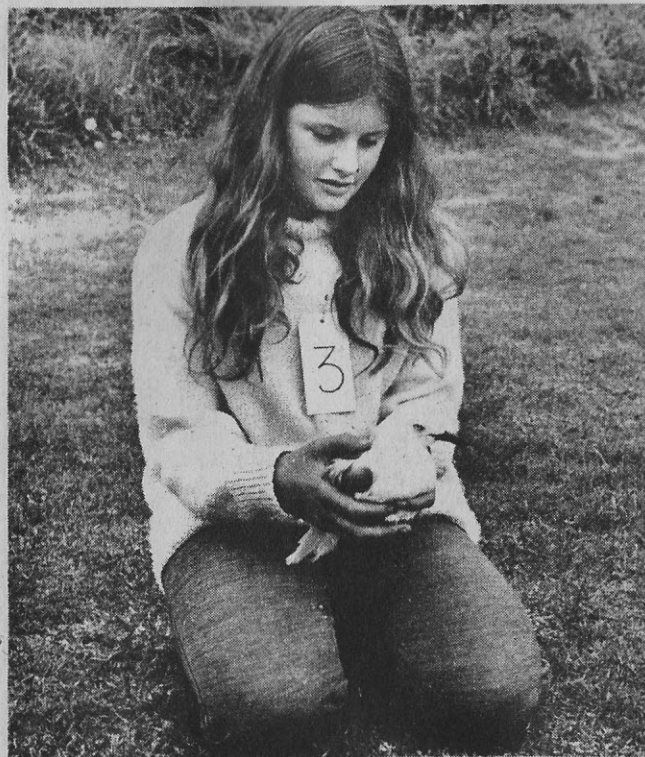

In October, 1876, New Plymouth became a borough and it is more than probable that 1976 will see large scale centenary celebrations. The occasion merits provincial support and Mr E.W. McCallum, Hawera county chairman and a member of the Taranaki Promotion Association executive, is keen to participate in some way. Mr McCallum told the May meeting of the TPA executive that New Plymouth was our city and he hoped that New Plymouth considered Taranaki to be part and parcel of itself. If it was feasible he would like the opportunity to participate in any centenary celebrations. The TPA chairman, New Plymouth Mayor Mr D.V. Sutherland, commended Mr McCallum's lead and hoped that other areas of Taranaki would be willing to be associated with the 1976 celebrations. It would be an opportunity to demonstrate the strong provincial unity, he said.

Did you know that baby ghosts thrive on evaporated milk?

I'm not long back from a short holiday in the north. Made the opportunity to follow our golfers in the last four rounds of the Freyberg Rosebowl tournament in Whangarei.

Taranaki did exceptionally well and carried the province's banner proudly. There were a lot of supporters at the tournament and this, besides encouraging our golfers, added weight to claims of provincial unity. I took a few photographs of the Taranaki golfers and a selection appears elsewhere in this issue.

Dog Obedience Class

The North Taranaki Canine Obedience Club is indeed a very valuable asset to dog owners. Not only does the club teach dog owners how to control their dogs, it teaches them to obtain respect and love from their animals too. Graduation classes were held last month at East End and it is interesting to note that 24 dogs out of 30 passed their tests and their owners received the appropriate Graduation Certificates.

WINTER SHOW

This years Winter Show will be the last until new buildings on the Showgrounds site are ready for occupation.

While some people have been loud in their criticism of the Show, claiming that it is the same each year, the large crowd that attends each year, is ample reason for the Winter Show to continue.

Seventy members of the Hawera and Eltham Pony Clubs took part in a weekend trek which took them along the Tirimoana Road and eventually up to Lake Rotokare. ## FIDDLER IN PALMERSTON Hawera repertory travelled to Palmerston North to stage Fiddler on the Roof.

A major operation was the packaging and transportation of the set. This was accomplished with help from members of the Wanganui Amateur Musical and Dramatic Society, who own the set.

The first job at 11.30 was to dismantle the complex revolving stage.

Properties Mistress Rene Laird was on hand to check the items as they were unloaded.

New Cars By The Hundreds

Due to very rough weather at sea ships were recently diverted to New Plymouth to unload their cargo of imported cars. It is doubtful if as many cars of the one make have ever been seen in the city at one time before. The first batch of vehicles were all transported from the wharf to W.R. Phillips yard at the Smart Road area, where we took these photographs. It seems likely that there will be more consignments of cars off-loading at Port Taranaki in the future.

Readers Write

Sir,
It is with regret that I must comment on the apparant deterioration in the print quality of Photo News.

The use of newsprint in the magazine cheapens an otherwise good production and I would suggest that you make an urgent return to a better type of paper.

Quality - New Plymouth

We appreciate your concern at the introduction of newsprint. 'Quality'. At the time we decided to change our format and our paper, we were forced to choose between the new style magazine and the old format (with higher quality paper) at an increased retail to around 65 cents per copy. We thought it better to keep the price down. ....Ed.

Sir,

Congratulations on the new mag. We like the bigger size and think the pictures all look alot clearer. Thanks too for not increasing the price even though you are giving us more.

'Judy and Bob' - New Plymouth

Glad you like us in our new clothes. ....Ed.

Sir,

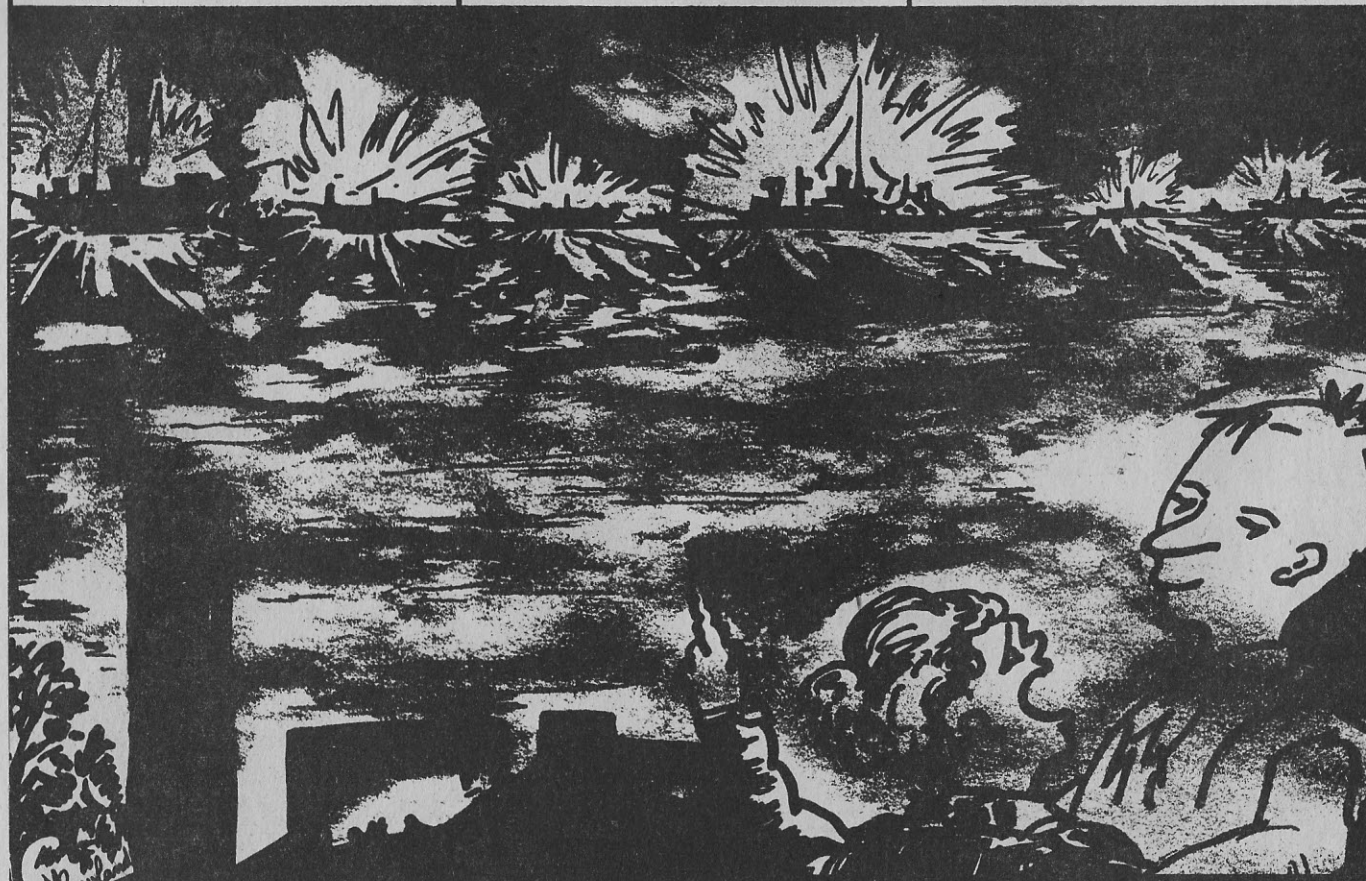

Have you changed the name of your magazine? Why after all these years have you decided to become 'New Plymouth' Photo News!?

Taranaki isn't just New Plymouth as some of the city people seem to think.

'Angry' - Hawera.

We agree with you 'Angry' and apologise for the mistake. See apology, on page 1. ....Ed.
